> Executive leaders must prepare for generative AI and the changes that are sure to come in the way work is done and businesses are run. This PowerPoint presentation identifies the important information that you need to know.

Generative AI (GenAI) will change the world faster than any innovation in history. The ramifications in the near-, mid- and long-term will be startling, fundamentally altering the way businesses operate. Jobs will change, and workers and executives will need to adjust.

The attached PowerPoint presentation explains the changes Gartner expects to see, and offers guidance on how executive leaders can navigate challenges and help their businesses thrive.

This presentation is built in a modular way, with six topics to navigate and reuse. Each slide comes with speaking notes, and references for some of the analysts at Gartner who can provide more detail.

You can use this PowerPoint presentation as a library of slides for your own presentations. They will help you in explaining the impact of generative AI on your organization. Choose the slides from this deck that complement your context and your organization's story the best.
